

Aon Selects Workday Financial Management to Help Drive Global Growth

Leading Insurance and Professional Services Firm With More Than 70,000 Employees Expands Workday Footprint Following Successful Deployment of Workday HCM

PLEASANTON, CA--(Marketwired - Nov 19, 2015) - Workday, Inc. (NYSE: WDAY), a leader in enterprise cloud applications for finance and human resources, today announced that Aon plc (NYSE: AON), the leading global provider of risk management, insurance and reinsurance brokerage, and human resource solutions and administration services, is expanding its Workday footprint to include Workday Financial Management. Aon's selection of Workday Financial Management, coupled with its recent deployment of Workday Human Capital Management (HCM), makes Aon one of the largest organizations to use Workday's unified suite of applications to manage and drive insights from its financial, people, and operational data.

With more than 70,000 employees across 120 countries, Aon is one of the world's leading risk and insurance brokers and employee benefits consulting firms with global business units including Aon Benfield, Aon Hewitt, and Aon Risk Solutions. With a focus on optimizing financial and people resources to ensure client success, Aon recognized the value in expanding its Workday deployment and establishing one system to further unify the organization and drive global growth.

To deploy Workday Financial Management globally, Aon will leverage the expertise of its Cloud Solutions unit within Aon Hewitt -- which has helped deploy and support Workday for more than 200 clients.

With Workday's unified suite of applications, Aon expects to:

- Utilize built-in reporting and analytics to equip organizational leaders with real-time, actionable insights that will enable them to more quickly and confidently make informed decisions that drive client and shareholder value.
- Increase financial data transparency and relevancy with one unified financial application for all accounting and reporting needs across business units and global offices. Using Worktags, Aon will also be able to easily analyze, drill down into, and report on data using dimensions such as a region, department, or customer, and take action to better drive results.
- Realize efficiencies and improve productivity by reducing time spent on manual processes such as extracting and consolidating data for spreadsheet calculations. As a result, Aon will be able to redirect resources to more high-value work which will greatly impact business effectiveness.
- Further empower its on-the-go, global workforce to access information and take action, where and when needed.

Comments on the News

"To deliver the best services and solutions to our clients globally, it's important to have a technology foundation that unifies our people and costs so we can gain the insights we need across our business," said Laurel Meissner, senior vice president and global controller, Aon. "Overseeing accounting, financial reporting, and compliance for a large global organization requires a comprehensive understanding of our day-to-day financial performance. Workday will enable us to have more control over financial performance, with timely insights into the current state of the business and continuous innovation to help ensure we are always up-to-date with new standards and regulations for each region in which we operate."

"As a Workday Services Partner, we've helped hundreds of clients deploy and support Workday, and have seen the value of a unified finance and HR system in driving business results," said Jonathan Schembor, president of Cloud Solutions, Aon Hewitt. "By deploying Workday Financial Management across our organization, we will experience these benefits first-hand, helping us strengthen our capabilities and expertise in providing our clients with a full spectrum of services -- from advisory, to deployment, and ongoing support -- across all Workday products."

"As one of the world's largest and most successful insurance brokers and professional services firms, Aon's selection of Workday Financial Management underscores that global business leaders continue to look for a cloud-first, data-driven approach to real-time finance as a way to gain and maintain a competitive edge," said Aneel Bhusri, co-founder and CEO, Workday. "With Workday, Aon will be able to access deeper insights across all of its business units, helping leaders better align financial and employee performance to drive global business growth."
